Tanzania: A Market Analysis

A report on the size and structure of the development sector in Tanzania, by InterMedia

July 2005

Commissioned by:

IDS Knowledge Services Strategic Learning Initiative
About the Strategic Learning Initiative (SLI)
We believe that development and social change are greatly enhanced by the availability, accessibility and use of research and information. The Strategic Learning Initiative (SLI) stimulates learning and develops capacity among information and knowledge intermediaries who share this belief. We do this by facilitating learning and innovation and by sharing critical thinking and examples of best practice. Our areas of expertise are Capacity Development, Research, Marketing and Monitoring and Evaluation. SLI is based in the Information Department at the Institute of Development Studies (IDS), Sussex and supports the IDS Knowledge Services. SLI is funded by the Department for International Development (DFID) through the Mobilising Knowledge for Development (MK4D) programme.

About this publication
This market analysis is one of a series of reports commissioned in 2005 by the Strategic Learning Initiative to support the marketing activities of the DFID-funded Mobilising Knowledge for Development programme. The reports explore the size and structure of a number of key sectors of interest to information and knowledge intermediaries in development, including government, academia, libraries and the media. The researchers used publically available sources, enabling readers to maintain the accuracy of the findings, including contact details. Reports were commissioned for: Bangladesh, Bolivia, China, Ghana, India, Kenya, Mozambique, Nigeria, Rwanda, Tanzania, Uganda and Zambia. These reports were reformatted to be published online in 2009 and are available as a free download from: http://www.ids.ac.uk/go/knowledge-services/strategic-learning-initiative/publications

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE AND GENERAL METHODOLOGY

At the request of the Institute of Development Studies at the University of Sussex in Brighton, England, InterMedia Survey Institute has conducted a desk research study with the aim of providing an overall market size and structure for each of the 12 countries specified in the research agreement. This study compiles and presents informational findings from publicly available sources, toward six specific categories of inquiry, as outlined in the preceding table of contents. This includes a full informal documentation of all such sources. Where key information is available but from a non-reproducible source, a direct and/or “deep” hyperlink has been provided, with the permission of the link’s host. Where appropriate, a brief explanation, aimed at guiding the reader toward the source’s intended use, may accompany the link.

Although research efforts have been exhaustive, the below information is merely a general snapshot of the market as InterMedia’s research has best been able to uncover it and, as such, cannot be guaranteed to be entirely comprehensive.
I. CATEGORY 1: GOVERNMENT STRUCTURE, MINISTRIES, DEPARTMENTS AND CONTACT INFORMATION

A. INFORMATION ABOUT TANZANIA

Capital
Dar Es Salaam. Legislative offices have been transferred to Dodoma, which is planned as the new national capital.

Administrative Division
26 regions: Arusha, Dar es Salaam, Dodoma, Iringa, Kagera, Kigoma, Kilimanjaro, Lindi, Manyara, Mara, Mbeya, Morogoro, Mtwara, Mwanza, Pemba North, Pemba South, Pwani, Rukwa, Ruvuma, Shinyanga, Singida, Tabora, Tanga, Zanzibar Central/South, Zanzibar North, Zanzibar Urban/West

Branches of Government
Three: Legislative, Executive, Judicial

Legislative Branch
Unicameral National Assembly or Bunge: 274 seats—232 elected by popular vote, 37 allocated to women nominated by the president, five to members of the Zanzibar House of Representatives; members serve five-year terms; note—in addition to enacting laws that apply to the entire United Republic of Tanzania, the Assembly enacts laws that apply only to the mainland; Zanzibar has its own House of Representatives to make laws especially for Zanzibar (the Zanzibar House of Representatives has 50 seats, directly elected by universal suffrage to serve five-year terms)
Elections: last held 29 October 2000 (next to be held 30 October 2005)

Judicial Branch
Comprised of a Permanent Commission of Enquiry (official ombudsman); Court of Appeal (a chief justice and four judges); High Court (consists of a Jaji Kiongozi and 29 judges appointed by the president; holds regular sessions in all regions); District Courts; Primary Courts (limited jurisdiction and appeals can be made to the higher courts).

Government Type
Republic

Independence
It is considered to be April 26, 1964. Tanganyika became independent on December 9, 1961 (from UK-administered UN trusteeship); Zanzibar became independent on December 19, 1963 (from UK); Tanganyika united with Zanzibar on April 26, 1964 to form the United Republic of Tanganyika and Zanzibar. The country was renamed United Republic of Tanzania on October 29, 1964.

Legal System
Based on English common law; judicial review of legislative acts limited to matters of interpretation. Tanzania has not accepted compulsory ICJ jurisdiction.

Suffrage
18 years of age

International Organization Participation
ACP, AfDB, AU, C, EADB, FAO, G- 6, G-77, IAEA, IBRD, ICAO, ICC, ICCt, ICFTU, ICRM, IDA, IFAD, IFC, IFRCS, ILO, IMF, IMO, Interpol, IOC, IOM, ISO, ITU, MIGA, NAM, OPCW, SADC, UN,

II. Market Size Methodology: InterMedia and DDO Breakdowns

As requested, we have provided estimated market size figures for each category of our inquiry (i.e., categories 2 to 6, with category 5 broken down further by sector). We have derived this market size figure by simply taking the sum of all the organizations and institutions we have unearthed in each requested category. We are calling this figure the InterMedia Breakdown. As such, each of the following sections of this report begins with this InterMedia Breakdown, informing at the outset the section’s corresponding estimated market size.

In addition, we have provided a second market-size breakdown for each country, in its own section preceding the categories 2 through 6. This breakdown, based solely upon categories and entries found within The Directory of Development Organizations (DDO) 2005, will be referred to as the DDO Breakdown. This breakdown is simply a manual count of the number of organizations within each DDO category in each country, as the DDO has organized it. Explored below is a broader description of the DDO and its categories.

DDO: A Brief Explanation of Use and Availability

The Directory of Development Organizations (DDO) 2005: Volume 1 (available at http://www.devdir.org/) is among the most comprehensive one-source listings that we have found covering development-related organizations within a particular country. Though non-reproducible, we have permissions to provide hyperlinks to this invaluable resource. These files are accessible to anyone with Adobe Reader and internet access:

- Download either by Google Searching the below .pdf link, http://www.devdir.org/files/Tanzania.PDF, or access it directly from http://www.devdir.org/africa.htm.

About DDO

Though it appears to be a comprehensive development directory, the DDO makes no such claims; it primarily strives to include only those organizations that “fit the general criteria of promoting good governance, sustainable development and poverty reduction.”

As such, their alphabetically-arranged-per-country directory houses current contact information for all such organizations. This includes standard mailing and email addresses, telephone/fax numbers, and websites where relevant.

DDO Categories and the DDO Breakdown

DDO entries are listed by the below categories. To read DDO’s own definitions of how these categories are defined and how the classifications are derived, please refer to the below information, accessible on http://www.devdir.org/ and http://www.devdir.org/faqs.htm#faq5, respectively:

For each of the regions contacts have been annotated by the following 9 categories:
(1) international organizations; (2) government institutions; (3) private sector support organizations (including fair trade); (4) finance institutions; (5) training and research centres; (6) civil society organizations; (7) development consulting firms (including references to job opportunities and vacancy announcements); (8) information providers (development newsletters/journals); and, (9) grantmakers…

The following are some examples of the organizations classified in one of the nine categories: (1) international organizations: including for example UN organizations, World Bank, IMF, IADB, AIGSB, AsDB; (2) government: ministries, government institutions, planning agencies; (3) private sector support organizations: chambers of commerce and industry, fair trade organizations, trade promotion organizations for SMEs; (4) finance institutions: central banks, national development banks, commercial banks, credit unions, microfinance institutions, finance houses; (5) training and research organizations: universities, research centres and institutions, training institutes; (6) civil society organizations: development foundations and associations, membership development organizations, microfinance institutions, faith-based development organizations, development programmes and projects; (7) development consulting firms: including job opportunities and vacancy announcements; (8) information providers: development newsletters/journals, development publishers, web resources, databases; (9) grantmakers: fundraising, charity and philanthropic organizations.

Thus, we have provided a count of the number of entries within each category for each country—i.e., the DDO Breakdown of market size for said-category in said-country. The DDO Breakdown, therefore, looks like this: “Civil Society Organization (CSO): 209”. This means that DDO lists 209 civil society organizations active and present in the country in question. (The term in parentheses is the term as it appears in the DDO entry.)

DDO BREAKDOWN FOR TANZANIA

Below is the DDO Breakdown for market size in Tanzania:

1) International Organizations (International): 47
2) Government Institutions (Government): 42
3) Private Sector Support Organizations (Private sector): 19
4) Finance Institutions (Finance): 44
5) Training & Research (Training and Research): 47
6) Civil Society Organization (CSO): 209
7) Development Consulting Firms (Consulting): 12
8) Information Providers (Information): 5
9) Grantmakers (Grantmakers): 2

For additional information, please refer directly to the DDO.
III. CATEGORY 2: SOCIAL SCIENCE RESEARCH INSTITUTES AND SOCIAL SCIENCE/DEVELOPMENT STUDIES DEPARTMENTS

INTERMEDIA BREAKDOWN

Below is the InterMedia Breakdown for social science research institutes and/or social science/development departments, broken down by subject area. Due to hybrid programs, departments, and sub-departments/fields, as well as natural categorical overlap, the below is a very rough estimation and must be regarded as a heuristic guide only:

1) Humanities (Liberal/Performing Arts, History, Literature, Languages, Classical/Cultural Studies, Gender Studies, Anthropology, Psychology, Sociology, Philosophy, Religious Studies, etc.): 22
2) Economics, Business Administration, Management, Accounting, Commerce, Trade: 16
3) Information & Communication Technology, Audio-Visual Arts, Broadcasting, Journalism, Media & Communication Studies: 5
4) Political Science, Public Administration, Government, Policy, Law: 7
5) International Affairs, Conflict Studies, National Security, Peacemaking: 1
6) Public Health, Pharmacology, Nursing, Medicine, Kinesiology: 40
7) Education & Specialized Training, Research & Training Methods, Statistics, Library Sciences: 11
8) Social Welfare, Rural & Urban Development: 14
9) Pure & Applied Biological, Environmental & Earth Sciences, Food & Agricultural Studies: 31
10) Pure & Applied Physical Sciences, Material & Polytechnical Engineering: 37

Note: Methodological Variance

Please take note that the total numbers of Tanzania’s research institutions may appear particularly large compared to those totals reported for some of the comparable countries covered up to this point. This variance is a result of recent changes and improvements in our classification- and count-methods.

Many countries’ counts have thus far been tallied under slightly different sets of categories, to match each country’s unique research market; often times, past counts have excluded scientific and technical schools altogether. However, because science, technology and development can, and perhaps should, be viewed as inseparable functions, we have recently decided not only to take these previously excluded fields into consideration, but also to tally individual departments and programs, rather than institutions alone, in every category, for greater target specificity.

V. CATEGORY 4: MEDIA OUTLETS WITH AN INTEREST IN SOCIAL ISSUES

Note: Serving as active or potential platforms for public opinion, elite communications, local and national news briefs, commerce and recreation alike, virtually all media outlets have been found to have either a tangential interest in, or direct relevance to, social issues. As such, all media outlets have been listed; those indicating a news focus will naturally be less entertainment-driven and more issue-centered.

Media Overview (BBC)

Tanzania’s media scene, once small and largely state-controlled, developed rapidly following the advent of the multi-party era in the mid 1990s. Television was a latecomer: President Nyerere opposed it, regarding TV as a luxury which would widen the gap between rich and poor. State TV launched in 2001, several years after the first private TV station went on the air in 1994. TV viewing is eroding radio’s traditional dominance. Although the growth of the broadcast media has been hindered by a lack of capital investment, dozens of private FM radio stations are on the air, most of them in urban areas. News bulletins from international radio stations - including the BBC, Voice of America and Germany’s Deutsche Welle, are carried by many stations. The mainland and Zanzibar have separate media policies. Liberalisation measures documented in a 2001 media bill did not apply to the island. There are no private broadcasters or newspapers on Zanzibar, though many locals can receive mainland broadcasters and read the mainland press.
