

PRECARIOUS PROSPECTS: OIL IN NORTHERN KENYA
CLERKENWELL GALLERY
20 CLERKENWELL GREEN, LONDON, EC1R 0DP
19 OCTOBER 2017
FROM 5PM

SAFERWORLD
PREVENTING VIOLENT CONFLICT. BUILDING SAFER LIVES

Please join us for an exhibition of photographs on oil and development in Kenya's remote Turkana County. The event will include drinks and light refreshments.

Clerkenwell Gallery
20 Clerkenwell Green, London, EC1R 0DP
5.00pm, Thursday 19 October 2017

With speeches from research fellow at the Institute of Development Studies Dr. Jeremy Lind and Saferworld's director of policy and communications Robert Paker.

RSVP by 6 October 2017 to:
Elizabeth Bourne, Communications Manager
Email: ebourne@saferworld.org.uk
Phone: +44 (0)20 7324 4646

PRECARIOUS PROSPECTS: OIL IN NORTHERN KENYA

In recent decades, global demand has transformed the prospects of many African states that are rich with natural resources – particularly oil and gas. From new motorways to shopping centres, the image of a continent on the move is unmistakeable. But what does transformation look like in the rural margins, far away from Africa's booming cities?

Precarious Prospects tells the story of changing lives and livelihoods in Lokichar, a small town in Turkana County, and surrounding villages that are at the centre of northern Kenya's oil frontier. Featuring the work of acclaimed photographer Sven Torfinn and images from Turkana-based Evans Otieno, the exhibition captures changes in a locale whose fortunes have become inseparable from the highs and lows of the global resource economy.